

An Election Protection Wiki

Date: 2008-11-04 13:45

Type: Drupal Node (story)

In time for the election, this report from MGP/JTM

alumni news about Giraffe prospect John Stauber:

<http://www.EPWiki.org>

John Stauber's Center for Media and Democracy said today it had launched a new wiki web site as a "non-partisan, non-profit collaboration of citizens, activists and researchers to build a one-stop-shop for reports of voter suppression and the systemic threats to election integrity." There's also a Google group associated with the wiki:

<http://groups.google.com/group/epwiki>

Stauber writes in an email today:

"Our Election Protection Wiki <www.EPwiki.org> team led by Conor Kenny and Dave Johnson are working hard to make it as valuable as possible to journalists in the crucial hours and days ahead. The Election Protection site is getting a lot of traffic despite being so new, and our editors will be working hard on it after Tuesday too so as to make it a great resource for evaluating this election and preparing for the next."