Mark Karlin - Founder/owner

"What makes me get up to do this? I believe in democracy, and that's not a cliché. I believe in America. We are a nation that allows for the individual to flourish without the imposition of the government. Ironically, in some ways, that statement used to be the Republican philosophy. What's different is I think the government also represents a national community and the government is a safety net for that national community."

Mark Karlin, in a May 20, 2005 interview with The Media Giraffe Project "

About

BuzzFlash says it provides headlines, news, and commentary for a geographically-diverse, politically-savvy, pro-democracy, anti-hypocrisy web audience, reaching 5 million visitors a month (as of May, 2006) and growing.

On May 6, 2006, BuzzFlash founder Mark Karlin authored a six-year anniversary editorial.

On June 8, 2005, BuzzFlash began making a weekly "Wings of Justice" award to individuals nominated by Buzzflash readers, writing: "BuzzFlash.com is now awarding a weekly "Wings of Justice Award" to honor individuals who speak out and take action on behalf of the great American tradition of courage, Constitutional Rights, secular inclusion, truthfulness and common sense."
